JFK's Railroad Panel Sets Up Busy Schedule

Legislation Appears Only Way To Avert Nationwide Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's blue ribbon rails panel has drawn up a busy work schedule for next week amid increasing signs that legislation is the only way to avert a nationwide strike.

The six-man committee, which spent Thursday and Friday getting organized, gave no definite sign today that any of its individual members may step in as mediator in another try at ironing out the four-year-old dispute over new work rules.

The members were not selected for a mediation function, the chairman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, has pointed out.

The function is primarily fact-finding to help the President draw up legislation to be recommended to Congress by July 22, Wirtz has emphasized.

A government official made it clear that with the carriers and the five operating unions as adamant as they are, there seems to be little hope for any settlement other than through legislation.

The committee will pursue its task under the strike truce arranged by President Kennedy Wednesday. Under that agreement the carriers have postponed until July 29 putting into effect new work rules designed to eliminate gradually upwards of 60,000 jobs and the unions have said they will delay strike action until that date.

The committee has taken a weekend break, leaving half-dozen Labor and Commerce Department specialists to iron out operational procedures.

The panel will resume sessions Monday with representatives of the carriers and the unions summoned for quizzing on any issues that may arise.

Tuesday, a similar session will be held—first with all concerned taking part, then the committee meeting with each side separately.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said that Wednesday the committee will begin preparing its report to the President. Reynolds said it is hoped that the job will be finished by Friday, three days in advance of Kennedy's deadline for the fact-finding job.

The administration has avoided giving any hint of what Kennedy's recommendations will be, but some sources have indicated the remedy will involve some form of arbitration.

If it is arbitration the bonus for eliminating rail jobs thus would be taken off union leaders, who could place the responsibility on Congress. The unions have said repeatedly they oppose any form of compulsory arbitration.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president and a member of the committee, who earlier had made certain with Wirtz that individual members would be permitted to mediate on their own should the opportunity arise, had nothing to say on the issue Friday.

Stuart Saunders, board chairman of the Norfolk & Western Railway, said he would have nothing to say at this time on whether he would attempt any settlement on his own.

Joseph Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Co. of Chicago; George M. Harrison, chief executive of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges are the other members.

CLOSE COOPERATION — U.S. negotiator Averell Harriman (right) and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan head for lunch where they discussed the groundwork for a partial nuclear test ban. Harriman is en route to Moscow for the Big Three talks.

Peking Admits China-Soviet Unity Talks Prove To Be Flop

MOSCOW (AP) — The deadlocked Soviet-Chinese unity talks, labeled a flop by Peking, are expected to end before Monday, clearing the way for new East-West efforts to reach a nuclear test ban.

Red China broke the week-long official silence surrounding the ideological peace talks, Friday, acknowledging "with hearts" that attempts to heal the widening breach between Communism's giants have failed.

Then, in an apparent attempt to avoid charges of rupturing the talks, Peking held the door open for further negotiations at another time.

"We want unity, not a split," the official Peking People's Daily said in an editorial broadcast by the New China News Agency, monitored in Tokyo. It added, "The present situation is very grave."

Peking said it had hoped relations with Moscow would be eased by the talks "but we now have to point out with heavy hearts that events have gone contrary to our hopes."

Soviet informants predicted the meetings would end in two or three days. Good sources indicated the two sides did not even agree on a basis to open the negotiations.

The admitted failure in the attempt to reconcile Premier Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence line with Peking's militant stand came two days before the scheduled opening here of new East-West nuclear test ban talks.

U.S., British and Soviet test ban negotiators will meet Monday. Western circles here viewed prospects of an accord on the long-deadlocked issue with guarded optimism.

Although conceding that the current Soviet-Chinese meetings are doomed to failure, Peking expressed hope that future sessions would be more fruitful.

At the same time the editorial gave vent to feelings of outrage. "Since the start of the Chinese-Soviet talks, the Central Committee of the Soviet Union has not ceased its public attack on the Communist party of China," Peking said.

A brief meeting was held Friday following a day's recess in the talks.

Bank Run by Women Robbed Third Time in Last 8 Months

GREENBACK, Tenn. (AP) — The man stuck a gun in Mrs. Nola Elam's face, and demanded the money.

"I hesitated," Mrs. Elam said. "And I thought to myself—I just don't believe I'll give it to him. This is getting too commonplace."

But hand over the money she did Friday, and for the third time in the last eight months the little farm town's Merchants and Farmers Bank — operated solely by women—had been robbed.

This time, through quick action which has become habit with the women, police arrested two men at a roadblock less than 35 minutes later and recovered $7,200.

Last December it was $54,000, recovered in an hour. In March it was $44,470, which hasn't been found. Six men are serving prison terms for those holdups; four convicted of robbery, two of conspiracy.

Mrs. Elam, executive vice president and cashier, has a bookkeeper and two tellers, all women she considers calmer than men.

The bank has no alarm system; there is no police force to alert.

Greenback, which got its name not from cash but a political party, has a population of 400. Consequently, strangers are noticed.

"They looked suspicious to me when they walked in," Mrs. Elam said.

Then began the somewhat familiar routine: the gun, the sack, the warning. Mrs. Elam and Mrs. Cleo Mills, bookkeeper, followed orders of the nervous bandits and filled the bag with cash.

As the pair fled in a car, a teller noted the color of the license plates, and a hometown girl got the number.

A few miles down the highway, officers arrested Merrill Mack Moser, 42, and Jack Fee, 39, former Tennesseans who have served terms in a California prison. In the car was $7,200, a pistol, shotgun and sunglasses like those the gunmen wore.

The two were identified by Mrs. Elam and taken to Knoxville where they were arraigned on bank robbery charges and jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond each.

Mother Finally Becomes Citizen

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — The three children of Mrs. Joseph Corso of Sandusky became U.S. citizens before their mother—but it's all straightened out now.

The mother, Bertha, a native of Switzerland, was all set to be in the naturalization class of July last year. But she was notified of the date of proceedings just four days before she would be off to her homeland for a visit. Plans were too advanced to be canceled.

Then, last Jan. 14 she was included in another class of new citizens-to-be.

But on Jan. 13, Mrs. Corso had a baby girl. This week, on her third try, she returned home to her family — citizenship details completed and registered to vote along with her husband.

Soviets on Prowl For Defecting Spy

LONDON (AP) — Soviet agents are searching Britain with orders to kill or kidnap master spy Anatoli Dolynitsin, who defected to the West 18 months ago, British newspapers said today.

The Daily Express said an attempt already may have been made on the defector's life.

Dolynitsin brought with him Soviet military secrets and details of spy networks and undercover agents working for the Soviet Union. He is understood to have provided British counter-intelligence agents with a list of people in Britain who may be — or could be — Soviet agents.

Dolynitsin is in hiding, under guard, being groomed for a new identity. It is considered vital that he should be unrecognizable to the Soviet agents who for months to come are sure to press an intensive manhunt.

Dolynitsin's defection is believed to have dealt a severe blow to Soviet intelligence services. The Soviets will want him eliminated — for revenge and as a warning to others, informants noted.

Plastic surgery may be used to give Dolynitsin a new face — as it did for many British secret agents during World War II. Then he would be unrecognizable even to those who knew him during the eight months or so he lived in London while on a tour of duty here.

It generally is believed that Dolynitsin defected while serving in a Soviet satellite country after first contacting the U.S. embassy in an allied country. One report said he defected in a town in North America.

For about a year Dolynitsin was quizzed by the Central Intelligence Agency in the United States. After he requested asylum in Britain, he was flown here and interrogated.

Dolynitsin is credited with providing information that led to the exposure of William John Vassal, the homosexual spy in the British Admiralty.

He is reported to have given counter-intelligence agents information that pointed to Harold Philby as the man who tipped off turncoat British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were about to be arrested. Burgess and Maclean fled to Soviet Russia.

In January, Philby disappeared. He is believed to be behind the Iron Curtain.

A month after Dolynitsin defected, an engineering member of a Soviet trade delegation in West Germany was named by the Germans as a Soviet agent — in February 1962.

The following month, the West German Interior Ministry announced that five Communist spy rings had been broken up "in the last eight weeks."

No hint was given of the source which led to these discoveries. But there seems little doubt Dolynitsin played a key role.

Since then there has been an international spy purge and a number of Soviet agents and spy networks have been uncovered.

In May, the Federal Bureau of Investigation estimated that 300 Soviet agents had been recalled to Moscow.

Tempers Flare In TFX Hearing

Secretary of Navy Tangles with Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are flaring again—this time over a performance chart—as a Senate subcommittee presses ahead in its probe of the TFX warplane contract.

The latest angry exchanges pit Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth against chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Korth spent his fourth day on the witness stand Friday as the subcommittee probed the award of the TFX contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of New York. Senators want to know why Korth and other civilian defense chiefs overrode military evaluations that a design offered by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better and cheaper plane.

McClellan challenged a chart which Korth used to support his contention that the General Dynamics-Grumman design is superior. "The way you are presenting it, you are distorting the performance of the Boeing plane, based on the record," he said.

"Mr. Chairman, I deny that we are distorting it," Korth retorted. Continuing the exchange, a censored transcript of which was made public Friday, McClellan argued that the chart failed to reflect last-minute optional design changes the Boeing Co. had offered to make. He said the changes would have wiped out a claimed 320-mile an hour speed margin for the General Dynamics-Grumman plane and would have given the Boeing craft greater maneuverability at high altitudes.

Korth replied that the contractors knew that only the earlier designs would be evaluated and that technical teams never had evaluated a report spelling out the changes.

Birth Control Pill Power Is Studied
OXFORD, England (AP) — A doctor said Friday a woman who takes contraceptive pills for much of her life might find herself an expectant mother about the time she was drawing an old age pension.

Dr. L. Opeowitz told a meeting of the British Medical Association "now evidence has been put before us that there is a possibility that they only delay ovulation."

"Therefore there is a possibility that a woman of 60 or 70 might become pregnant after taking this drug for a period of years."

Kopelowitz did not name a particular drug.

Junta Exiles Veep, Installs Martial Law

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The ruling military junta that ousted President Carlos Julio Arosemena as a drunk and Communist sympathizer outlawed Ecuador's Communist party Friday and rounded up about 150 leftists.

Along with banning Communists the junta shipped Vice President Reynaldo Varea Donoso into exile, canceled elections, proclaimed martial law, and imposed a night curfew and censorship. At least a dozen persons were arrested for violating the curfew.

Col. Marcos Gandara, a junta member, said constitutional guarantees would be restored as soon as Communists and pro-Castro terrorists are contained. He said Communists "made dangerous infiltrations in high government posts and in government agencies."

He said the military rulers probably would retain power for two years to enact reforms in land, civil service and penal laws.

Meanwhile persons who attended a presidential banquet Wednesday night said Arosemena disgraced himself not only by getting drunk and vomiting in front of the guests but also by slurring the U.S. government in the presence of U.S. Ambassador Maurice M. Bernbaum.

Guests reported a hush of embarrassment fell over the banquet hall when Arosemena stood up and said:

"The people of Ecuador and those of the United States enjoy cordial relations but it exists only between the two people. The government of the United States exploits Latin America and exploits Ecuador."

Witnesses related Arosemena swayed, turned to the American ambassador, and said "don't get angry at what I have said because it is only my personal opinion. I hope you will understand and that you will agree."

Bernbaum replied: "No, Mr. President, I cannot agree with you. The government of the United States is a reflection of the American people."

Arosemena tried to prod Public Works Minister Miguel Salem into agreeing with his statement. The minister sat silent. Arosemena then staggered out of the room.

Military officers among the approximately 70 guests immediately went into a night-long session to plan the president's removal, informants said.

Another Probe Into Old Mine To Be Tried

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials planned one final probe into an old abandoned mine today in the search for three boys missing since Thursday.

They announced their decision after a six-man rescue team emerged from the mine earlier today and reported they had discovered no clues that would help them determine whether the teenagers are in the suburban Castle Shannon mine.

Everett Turner, a U.S. Bureau of Mines inspector, said exploration into the last area should take about eight hours. Once this is accomplished, he said, officials will have been satisfied that the mine was searched thoroughly.

"Then we'll have to say they're not in there," he added.

Only theories exist as to the whereabouts of the boys—Robert Abbott, 15, and Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, both 13.

Their families feel they are in the mine, closed since 1938. Some local officials, though, guess the boys have left Pittsburgh, possibly on a freight train. They say the boys possibly either became frightened when they heard about the search and are afraid to return home, or else they are off on an adventure.

Maryland Owner Of Cafe Is Sorry For His Behavior

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Robert Fehsenfeld, 42, wears glasses because he has practically no vision in one eye. His nose comes to a point, and he is balding. He is 5-foot-9, weighs around 200.

He has a wife, five children, and a big, friendly dog named "Lonesome."

An ordinary man. But something very extraordinary happened to him: He saw himself in his worst moment, with the world standing witness.

Furious because of integration demonstrations at his restaurant, Dizziland, he kicked a Negro who didn't raise a finger in defense. He smashed an egg and threw water at a white youth, who likewise turned the other cheek.

In ordinary times, the victims would have gone away and Fehsenfeld would have busied his mind with other matters. But the event was recorded by television cameras and newspaper photographers, and was described by reporters.

Seeing the picture of himself, seeing himself on television, Bob Fehsenfeld was horrified.

"It was disgusting. I was wrong. Yes, I was. I'm ashamed. I'll never forget it. It makes me feel very little, less than a man."

But the very act that reduced him in his own eyes brought dozens of letters which told him he was "tall," a big man, a hero. He became overnight a darling of segregationists who sent small donations and large promises of help.

There also was critical mail which denounced him as an ogre, as a subhuman, anti-Christian, pro-Communist, Nazi Negro-hater.

Why did he behave as he did? It appears that Bob Fehsenfeld is a man who gambled every cent on a business to provide for his family and panicked at seeing the business in jeopardy. He explains "When things were pretty near bottom in this town, my wife and I put everything we had into this building and then into this business. I used to have a hobby shop next door and then I decided I wanted a restaurant. I never was in the business, but I like to cook and fool around with food and eat. I love to eat. Doctor says I'm eating myself into the ground."

"I have to do this to provide for my family. We all want to leave something for them, and this was what I was going to leave. I can't get insurance because of my physical condition. I was in bed for a month with hypertension. I just can't take the pressure of things."

"The other day, these people sitting out front blocking the door so people can't get out. I asked them to move and they wouldn't. And I asked police to arrest them and they wouldn't. And people aren't too happy about being in the restaurant and they have to go out the back way."

"You can only take so much. I took it up to here and then my German got the best of me. I just went off. It was terrible. I'm disgusted with myself. But they drove me to it."

Fehsenfeld unburdened himself in the darkness of the restaurant. He had shut it and will keep it shut in the community interest.

"Mine is not racial hatred. Lord knows I never had it," he says. "I don't know how this is going to end. I think there's going to be a lot of trouble. I do know that I'm not particularly wanting to be a Paul Revere."

JFK's Railroad Panel Sets Up Busy Schedule

Legislation Appears Only Way To Avert Nationwide Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's blue ribbon rails panel has drawn up a busy work schedule for next week amid increasing signs that legislation is the only way to avert a nationwide strike.

The six-man committee, which spent Thursday and Friday getting organized, gave no definite sign today that any of its individual members may step in as mediator in another try at ironing out the four-year-old dispute over new work rules.

The members were not selected for a mediation function, the chairman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, has pointed out.

The function is primarily fact-finding to help the President draw up legislation to be recommended to Congress by July 22, Wirtz has emphasized.

A government official made it clear that with the carriers and the five operating unions as adamant as they are, there seems to be little hope for any settlement other than through legislation.

The committee will pursue its task under the strike truce arranged by President Kennedy Wednesday. The panel will resume sessions Monday with representatives of the carriers and the unions summoned for quizzing on any issues that may arise.

Tuesday, a similar session will be held—first with all concerned taking part, then the committee meeting with each side separately.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said that Wednesday the committee will begin preparing its report to the President. Reynolds said it is hoped that the job will be finished by Friday, three days in advance of Kennedy's deadline for the fact-finding job.

The administration has avoided giving any hint of what Kennedy's recommendations will be, but some sources have indicated the remedy will involve some form of arbitration.

If it is arbitration the bonus for eliminating rail jobs thus would be taken off union leaders, who could place the responsibility on Congress. The unions have said repeatedly they oppose any form of compulsory arbitration.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president and a member of the committee, who earlier had made certain with Wirtz that individual members would be permitted to mediate on their own should the opportunity arise, had nothing to say on the issue Friday.

Stuart Saunders, board chairman of the Norfolk & Western Railway, said he would have nothing to say at this time on whether he would attempt any settlement on his own.

Junta Exiles Veep, Installs Martial Law

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The ruling military junta that ousted President Carlos Julio Arosemena as a drunk and Communist sympathizer outlawed Ecuador's Communist party Friday and rounded up about 150 leftists.

Along with banning Communists the junta shipped Vice President Reynaldo Varea Donoso into exile, canceled elections, proclaimed martial law, and imposed a night curfew and censorship. At least a dozen persons were arrested for violating the curfew.

Col. Marcos Gandara, a junta member, said constitutional guarantees would be restored as soon as Communists and pro-Castro terrorists are contained. He said Communists "made dangerous infiltrations in high government posts and in government agencies."

He said the military rulers probably would retain power for two years to enact reforms in land, civil service and penal laws.

Meanwhile persons who attended a presidential banquet Wednesday night said Arosemena disgraced himself not only by getting drunk and vomiting in front of the guests but also by slurring the U.S. government in the presence of U.S. Ambassador Maurice M. Bernbaum.

Guests reported a hush of embarrassment fell over the banquet hall when Arosemena stood up and said:

"The people of Ecuador and those of the United States enjoy cordial relations but it exists only between the two people. The government of the United States exploits Latin America and exploits Ecuador."

Witnesses related Arosemena swayed, turned to the American ambassador, and said "don't get angry at what I have said because it is only my personal opinion. I hope you will understand and that you will agree."

Bernbaum replied: "No, Mr. President, I cannot agree with you. The government of the United States is a reflection of the American people."

Arosemena tried to prod Public Works Minister Miguel Salem into agreeing with his statement. The minister sat silent. Arosemena then staggered out of the room.

Military officers among the approximately 70 guests immediately went into a night-long session to plan the president's removal, informants said.

Another Probe Into Old Mine To Be Tried

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials planned one final probe into an old abandoned mine today in the search for three boys missing since Thursday.

They announced their decision after a six-man rescue team emerged from the mine earlier today and reported they had discovered no clues that would help them determine whether the teenagers are in the suburban Castle Shannon mine.

Everett Turner, a U.S. Bureau of Mines inspector, said exploration into the last area should take about eight hours. Once this is accomplished, he said, officials will have been satisfied that the mine was searched thoroughly.

"Then we'll have to say they're not in there," he added.

Only theories exist as to the whereabouts of the boys—Robert Abbott, 15, and Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, both 13.

Their families feel they are in the mine, closed since 1938. Some local officials, though, guess the trio have left Pittsburgh, possibly on a freight train. They say the boys possibly either became frightened when they heard about the search and are afraid to return home, or else they are off on an adventure.

LOADED FOR ACTION — Maryland National Guardsmen load a rack of rifles aboard a truck before moving to Cambridge to invoke "militia law"—the state's version of martial law.

Maryland Owner Of Cafe Is Sorry For His Behavior

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Robert Fehsenfeld, 42, wears glasses because he has practically no vision in one eye. His nose comes to a point, and he is balding. He is 5-foot-9, weighs around 200.

He has a wife, five children, and a big, friendly dog named "Lonesome."

An ordinary man. But something very extraordinary happened to him: He saw himself in his worst moment, with the world standing witness.

Furious because of integration demonstrations at his restaurant, Dizzlyland, he kicked a Negro who didn't raise a finger in defense. He smashed an egg and threw water at a white youth, who likewise turned the other cheek.

In ordinary times, the victims would have gone away and Fehsenfeld would have busied his mind with other matters. But the event was recorded by television cameras and newspaper photographers, and was described by reporters.

Seeing the picture of himself, seeing himself on television, Bob Fehsenfeld was horrified.

"It was disgusting. I was wrong. Yes, I was. I'm ashamed. I'll never forget it. It makes me feel very little, less than a man."

But the very act that reduced him in his own eyes brought dozens of letters which told him he was "tall," a big man, a hero. He became overnight a darling of segregationists who sent small donations and large promises of help.

There also was critical mail which denounced him as an ogre, as a subhuman, anti-Christian, pro-Communist, Nazi Negro-hater.

Why did he behave as he did? It appears that Bob Fehsenfeld is a man who gambled every cent on a business to provide for his family and panicked at seeing the business in jeopardy. He explains "When things were pretty near bottom in this town, my wife and I put everything we had into this building and then into this business. I used to have a hobby shop next door and then I decided I wanted a restaurant. I never was in the business, but I like to cook and food around with food and eat. I love to eat. Doctor says I'm eating myself into the ground."

"I have to do this to provide for my family. We all want to leave something for them, and this was what I was going to leave. I can't get insurance because of my physical condition. I was in bed for a month with hypertension. I just can't take the pressure of things."

"The other day, these people sitting out front blocking the door so people can't get out. I asked them to move and they wouldn't. And I asked police to arrest them and they wouldn't. And people aren't too happy about being in the restaurant and they have to go out the back way."

"You can only take so much. I took it up to here and then my German got the best of me. I just went off. It was terrible. I'm disgusted with myself. But they drove me to it."

Fehsenfeld unbundled himself in the darkness of the restaurant. He had shut it and will keep it shut in the community interest.

"Mine is not racial hatred. Lord knows I never had it," he says. "I don't know how this is going to end. I think there's going to be a lot of trouble. I do know that I'm not particularly wanting to be a Paul Revere."

Fragile Peace Is Maintained In Maryland

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A fragile peace enforced by National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets settled on this racially scarred community today as Negro leaders planned the next move in their integration campaign.

Militia law — and 400 guardsmen backing it up — were imposed after six persons were wounded Thursday night and early Friday in the second major outbreak of shootings here in a month.

There was no violence Friday night as the guard clamped on a series of restrictions just short of martial law, which is forbidden by the state constitution.

Businesses closed at 7 p.m. By 10 p.m. — an hour after the guard-imposed curfew — streets were deserted.

Liquor, beer and wine sales were suspended in the city and surrounding Dorchester County.

Main approaches to the town were sealed off. Only persons with urgent business were allowed to enter.

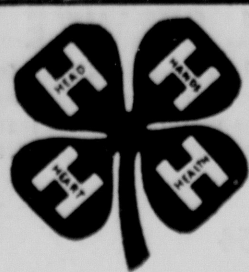

Automobiles were subjected to search for firearms at checkpoints. The ban on demonstrations applied to whites as well as Negroes.

Woman Says Vanity Isn't Really Fraud

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Miss Sumi Vella applied for her driver's license she gave her age as 25.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles discovered that she is 33. Last month the department suspended her license for a year on grounds that she gave fraudulent information.

Miss Vella filed suit Friday asking that the state be forced to return her license. Miss Vella, an insurance worker who lives in Hollywood, said that she changed her age "to satisfy my vanity and for no other reason."

CONSERVATION MINDED — George Maxson, Saltcreek Twp. farmer, examines the successful establishment of a surface drainage waterway on his property. Such practice is highly recommended by Soil Conservation Service personnel.

Use of Waterways Good Way To Avoid Washing of Soil

Soil Conservation Service personnel Don Archer and Casey Neal have been busy helping many farmers and land owners keep their soil by using waterways.

This is the time of year, they say, to make the most successful waterways.

Where the land slopes, with natural depression, heavy rains will wash the soil into a deeper and deeper gully. But it can be stopped with a waterway that is correctly designed, shaped seeded and then maintained, Archer and Neal explained.

With proper construction and seeding, the sod develops to where the water will soak in and pass over it without removing the soil. Waterways do need to be maintained. They must not be used as roadways, yet they are readily crossed by farm equipment and the grass on them may be harvested for hay.

THEY NEED to be mowed to make the sod short and dense so that the water will run "over" instead of "through". They need to be repaired where a break occurs as soon as it does occur.

"Each waterway is an individual problem and will require individual treatment, but it can be done," the Conservation personnel contend.

Archer said one of the outstanding waterways constructed in this county is that of George Maxson, Saltcreek Twp., who is a conservawhat occupation they would like to follow after completing their education.

Contestants for the 1963 King and Queen contest at the Pickaway County Fair will be Barbara Vance and Bob Vincent.

Do you go to various stores to take advantage of particular "bargains" or "specials" that are being offered?

All of us probably have done this at one time or another. We can save if we can use a large quantity at once or if we can preserve them in a freezer or locker.

Frying chicken is one of the items supermarkets often price low to draw customers into the store.

A survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows that customers know this and watch the ads. Sales of broiler-fryers in five large grocery stores tripled during the week chickens were advertised at reduced prices.

The following week, however, when back to regular prices, fryer sales dropped sharply. Evidently, many shoppers buy large amounts of frying chickens whenever it goes on "special."

Continued advertising and reduced prices then offer little further incentive to buy — partly because their freezers are probably already stocked.

This chicken at a low price is a "bargain" only for those who like it, can use it, or can keep it in a freezer. Otherwise it is not a "bargain" for you. Only you know whether or not it is a "bargain" for you and your family.

Whole wheat and graham breads are excellent foods that add variety to a meal and lots of good flavor. But they are not, as some people believe, nutritionally superior to enriched white breads in ordinary diets.

Nutritionists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture point out that bakers in this country have, for the past 20 years, been enriching white bread with thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron.

So, you can choose the bread to suit your taste — enriched white bread or whole wheat breads. Both have good nutritive value.

Have you tried any of the new freeze-dried foods? You probably have and were not aware of it — in dried soups, in prepared dinners and such things.

Freeze-drying is a new processing method which removes the moisture from fresh foods and permits them to be stored for as long as two years without refrigeration.

U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists recently ran tests on taste on 28 freeze-dried foods to see how they rated when compared with canned and frozen items. They found three freeze-dried definitely better than their canned or frozen counterparts, 15 equally as good, and 10 poorer.

The top three were beef noodle soup, shrimp creole, and one brand of chicken noodle soup.

These freeze-dried foods were as good as their canned or frozen counterparts — Swiss steak, beef steak, creamed chicken, shrimp, shrimp salad, creamed shrimp, crabmeat, crab salad, scrambled eggs, sausage, diced ham, chili with beans, chicken rice soup and one brand of chicken noodle soup and one brand of mushroom soup.

These freeze-dried foods were poorer than their canned or frozen counterparts — beef steaks, diced beef, sliced beef and gravy, two brands of diced chicken, chicken salad, chicken stew, chicken-rice casserole, peas, and one brand of mushroom soup.

In general, freeze-dried foods rated higher when used in prepared dishes than when used alone.

Farm Facts . . .

THE MAINTENANCE of a straw mulch under peach trees grown in sod improved yields in studies at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

WHEN BUYING tomato plants, select stocky, thick-stemmed plants about 10 inches tall with well-developed roots and dark green foliage.

MILLIONS of pounds of grass seed are wasted each spring because the gardener thinks the more he seeds the thicker his lawn will be. Seed is not needed to keep the sod thick. In fact, a well fed lawn is likely to need mechanical thinning to remove thatch.

THE AGRICULTURAL Research Service has established a pioneering research laboratory to step up basic research on the ways hormones and growth-regulating chemicals affect plants.

Teacher Distress

Fund Being Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2 million distress fund for teachers is being raised by the National Education Association.

The drive was spurred dispute in Utah where teachers are boycotting public schools pending settlement of a dispute with Gov. George Clyde about increased state appropriations for education. The dispute could throw 8,000-10,000 teachers out of work next fall.

Although Utah is the only place where the fund may be needed now, the NEA said it would be at the disposal of teachers elsewhere should the need arise.

The fund was authorized at a closed session of the NEA's board of directors in Detroit last week.

Maxson follows a regular inspection and maintenance program that makes his conservation practices work for him and saves his land.

Constructing the waterways now Archer advises, will allow the builder to achieve maximum grass growth before fall and winter arrives.

Do you go to various stores to take advantage of particular "bar gains" or "specials" that are being offered?

All of us probably have done this at one time or another. We can save if we can use a large quantity at once or if we can preserve them in a freezer or locker.

Frying chicken is one of the items supermarkets often price low to draw customers into the store.

A survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows that customers know this and watch the ads. Sales of broiler-fryers in five large grocery stores tripled during the week chickens were advertised at reduced prices.

The following week, however, when back to regular prices, fryer sales dropped sharply. Evidently, many shoppers buy large amounts of frying chickens whenever it goes on "special."

Continued advertising and reduced prices then offer little further incentive to buy — partly because their freezers are probably already stocked.

This chicken at a low price is a "bargain" only for those who like it, can use it, or can keep it in a freezer. Otherwise it is not a "bargain" for you. Only you know whether or not it is a "bargain" for you and your family.

Whole wheat and graham breads are excellent foods that add variety to a meal and lots of good flavor. But they are not, as some people believe, nutritionally superior to enriched white breads in ordinary diets.

Nutritionists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture point out that bakers in this country have, for the past 20 years, been enriching white bread with thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron.

So, you can choose the bread to suit your taste — enriched white bread or whole wheat breads. Both have good nutritive value.

Have you tried any of the new freeze-dried foods? You probably have and were not aware of it — in dried soups, in prepared dinners and such things.

Freeze-drying is a new processing method which removes the moisture from fresh foods and permits them to be stored for as long as two years without refrigeration.

U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists recently ran tests on taste on 28 freeze-dried foods to see how they rated when compared with canned and frozen items.

They found three freeze-dried definitely better than their canned or frozen counterparts, 15 equally as good, and 10 poorer.

The top three were beef noodle soup, shrimp creole, and one brand of chicken noodle soup.

These freeze-dried foods were as good as their canned or frozen counterparts — Swiss steak, beef steak, creamed chicken, shrimp, shrimp salad, creamed shrimp, crabmeat, crab salad, scrambled eggs, sausage, diced ham, chili with beans, chicken rice soup and one brand of chicken noodle soup and one brand of mushroom soup.

These freeze-dried foods were poorer than their canned or frozen counterparts — beef steaks, diced beef, sliced beef and gravy, two brands of diced chicken, chicken salad, chicken stew, chicken-rice casserole, peas, and one brand of mushroom soup.

In general, freeze-dried foods rated higher when used in prepared dishes than when used alone.

Farm Facts . . .

THE MAINTENANCE of a straw mulch under peach trees grown in sod improved yields in studies at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

WHEN BUYING tomato plants, select stocky, thick-stemmed plants about 10 inches tall with well-developed roots and dark green foliage.

MILLIONS of pounds of grass seed are wasted each spring because the gardener thinks the more he seeds the thicker his lawn will be. Seed is not needed to keep the sod thick. In fact, a well fed lawn is likely to need mechanical thinning to remove thatch.

THE AGRICULTURAL Research Service has established a pioneering research laboratory to step up basic research on the ways hormones and growth-regulating chemicals affect plants.

Teacher Distress Fund Being Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2 million distress fund for teachers is being raised by the National Education Association.

The drive was spurred dispute in Utah where teachers are boycotting public schools pending settlement of a dispute with Gov. George Clyde about increased state appropriations for education. The dispute could throw 8,000-10,000 teachers out of work next fall.

Although Utah is the only place where the fund may be needed now, the NEA said it would be at the disposal of teachers elsewhere should the need arise.

The fund was authorized at a closed session of the NEA's board of directors in Detroit last week.

ALL THIS FOR A LITTLE NOTHING—Thomas Suforma, 21, lies on roof after being flushed out of an attic and shot by police. He also suffered chest and shoulder injuries when his stolen car (lower) overturned when he tried to turn off a freeway in Chicago at 90 miles an hour. All this because Suforma left a gasoline station without paying for his gas.

Peace Corps Aide Is Midwife, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester Wiggins went to Peru to do construction work for the Peace Corps. But he proved himself in a completely unrelated field—midwifery.

A few minutes later, with help from Wiggins, the woman gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce boy. Said the report:

According to word received at Peace Corps headquarters here, Wiggins was giving a Peruvian woman and her husband a jeep ride when she began having birth pains.

A few minutes later, with help from Wiggins, the woman gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce boy.

Said the report: "Wiggins performed well as a midwife, and both mother and young Jose Chester Domingo are doing well."

Photo Season in Full Swing

The photographic season is in full swing. Already thousands of feet of film have been exposed the length and breadth of the land. And many more will be before the film or slide projector is brought out in the fall and apologies made to Aunt Minnie for having cut off her head — which is too bad because the color is so life-like!

The emphasis these days is on candidness, at all costs, and the costs are often high. Candidness is the doubtful virtue which is supposed to separate the lowly amateur from the senior amateur or professional.

If you take a picture of Gertie leering toothily and full-face into your lens, you're a rank amateur. If you snap it while she isn't looking, and she has a vacant stare, and she wants the negative so she can destroy it, than you're a serious amateur and candid cameraman.

But if you pose Gertie carefully, and then make it look as though she didn't know a thing about it, then you're practically a professional.

All this I-wouldn't-be-caught-dead-looking-at-the-camera nonsense is a far cry from former times when photography was no trivial matter. Nor were steam locomotives to be sneezed at, for all their steam, projecting cow-catchers and quaint conical smoke stacks. They were just about the highest expression of power and craftsmanship the world knew at that time.

There was no candid nonsense about those pictures. The be-moustached engineer was a serious man who might appear to be relaxing with proud grace beside his iron horse, but he looked the camera straight in its slow but reliable lens.

The others, too, (perhaps some top-hatted civic dignitaries, if it were the first train on a new line) were aware that they were being made a part of recorded history. Even the small boy in this old locomotive picture would hold his dog as still as possible in his attempt to include "Spot" and himself in the camera's field of vision.

In those days people didn't seem to like being caught off guard, photographically speaking. Their pictures reflect a pride and dignity missing from most of today's "candid" or "truer" or "more relaxed and less stilled" pictures. All the technical improvements in cameras and films haven't made up for what's missing.

Hints on Giving

One of the rewards of charity is the good feeling it gives you, and you still get that feeling if you have unknowingly become the victim of a fraud. But if you have the secure knowledge that your money is helping meet a real need, you can feel even better about it.

Don't give without heckling. Always ask a solicitor for an identification. Never promise a contribution in answer to a phone call. Inform yourself of the facts about the agency you are asked to contribute to.

Get positive identification before contributing to church, civic or benevolent groups. Don't hand over money to some vaguely described cause or religious society you never heard of. In fact, don't hand over money at all—give by check if you don't want to be a sucker.

Remember that legitimate charities do not use high pressure methods. Remember that you do not need to buy anything you did not order, and you do not have to return it if it is mailed to you. Remember that a list of well-known sponsors can be faked. By following such advice, you can make your charity dollar go further.

Almost every one of the activities of the human being is intimately involved with the hormones of the body. Growth, behaviour, weight, nervousness, fertility, depression and accomplishment all fall within the mystic orbit of the hormone and the endocrine glands.

These ductless glands — the pancreas, the thymus, the thyroid the adrenal, the gonads, the ovary and the pituitary — form an intricate network of inter-communication. Each gland has its own built-in thermostat to supply any demands made upon it for the production of more or less hormones. The delicate balance and sensitivity of this complex information exchange is called a homeostatic mechanism.

This delicate control system can be compared to the device that automatically keeps a room at a constant temperature level. Messages are constantly being relayed from one gland to another in a fraction of a second. Each gland translates and decodes these messages and responds by sending out the exact amount of hormones to meet the body's requirements.

But besides the well-known hormones in the endocrine glands, scientists are uncovering many more subtle and less apparent hormone systems. The brain, the bone marrow and even the wall of the intestines are shown to excrete chemicals important to the hormone structure.

Barely perceptible quantities of hormones inter-act with each other and effect all physical and emotional behavior in sickness, in health, at rest or in full activity. Even daily simple experiences call forth the secretion of hormones in various amounts and for various purposes.

Political Quicksands

A week or so ago they were writing Nelson Rockefeller off as the probable Republican nominee for President in 1964. Now, within the short space of a few days, some of the same people who were taking a Rocky collapse for granted are once more speaking hopefully about his chances.

The shift is indicative of the quicksands that lie in wait for the political prognosticators between now and convention time next summer. The point is, in this season of undecided issues, that nobody really knows which way seven or eight separate cats are about to jump. A couple of months back the Republicans thought Cuba might be the big 1964 issue; today, the consensus is that responses to civil rights will determine voting patterns. But other things may bulk larger on the horizon tomorrow, depending on what happens after the conclusion of the Soviet-Chinese Marxist policy talks and the nuclear test limitation negotiations.

As the political pros wet their fingers and stick them up to catch the breeze, two things have happened to revive the Rockefeller candidacy. The first is the eruption of a feeling that a limping tiger is better than no tiger. After ex-Senator Bush's blast against the circumstances of the Rockefeller remarriage, the eastern liberal Republicans looked around them wildly for another possible standard bearer. The rumor went around that ex-President Eisenhower had a secret preferred list of four, Governor Romney of Michigan, Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania, General Lucius Clay, and General Al Gruenther. But none of these men could be inflated to immediate tiger proportions. Nor did Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky excite much of a rumble.

Lacking a new tiger, the eastern pros looked once again at Nelson Rockefeller. What they saw was a man who had suddenly grabbed an issue and was off running. In the short space after the Governor's return from his Venezuela honeymoon, the limping tiger had managed to demonstrate that he could still get over the ground. With one thrust of a press release, Governor Rockefeller had managed to out-Kennedy the Kennedys on civil rights, and is now in position to make great mileage out of it at the governors' annual meeting in Miami Beach late in July.

There is no doubt that Rockefeller has done the one thing calculated to make people forget his marriage to a divorcee and, before that, the liquor scandals and tax troubles that had beset his New York State administration. The supporters of the Governor have taken the offensive against Goldwater, charging, in effect, that any Republican who would deliberately woo the South is guilty of lily-white betrayal of the Party of Abraham Lincoln. The theory is that no distinction will be made on election day in the big key states of the Northeast between moderates on the race issue and the most intemperate racists. Goldwater may have helped desegregate Phoenix, Arizona, but if he can be made to seem a tacit accomplice of Southern segregationists, the gamble is that the anti-lily whites among the Republicans can put Rockefeller over in a rush.

In putting himself at the head of the Negroes' push for rights, Rockefeller has taken a carefully calculated risk. It could take him into the convention in a strong position if he can carry the day in a few important primaries. But the risk assumes that the civil rights issue will still be the uppermost issue well into 1964.

This may indeed turn out to be the case. If President Kennedy is defeated by cloture in Congress in his hopes for an inclusive civil rights bill, and if Goldwater, along with Dirksen of Illinois, plays a significant part in that defeat, Rockefeller will be in a position to attract the support of anybody who has been disappointed by either the Democrats or the Congressional Republicans. But what if a moderately decent civil rights bill emerges from Congress for President Kennedy's signature? With the Negroes getting three-fourths of a loaf, could they make enough of an issue over the missing one-fourth to turn the Republican convention and the Autumn election into a knock-out and a drag-out battle over "lily-whitism"? The marching of the Negroes is now accepted as zeal, but if it were to continue after a partial victory it could be taken as a measure of intemperance.

By John Chamberlain

The whole subject is mined with unforseeable hazards. And Cuba, or Castroism in Venezuela and Brazil, could be the big 1964 issue after all.

WHAT TO EXPECT—This is how the 1959 solar eclipse looked from a plane at 21,000 feet. The Moon is halfway across the Sun (right), followed by total eclipse (middle), then moves away (left). The July 20 sight will be similar.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Permits were issued here for the construction of seven new dwellings.

The Circleville American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps participated in two parades at the state Legion Convention in Columbus.

Rain continued for the fifth consecutive day here, bringing a threat of floods.

More than 1,000 cattle breeders and guests attended the Ohio Angus Field Day at the Elm Shade Farms.

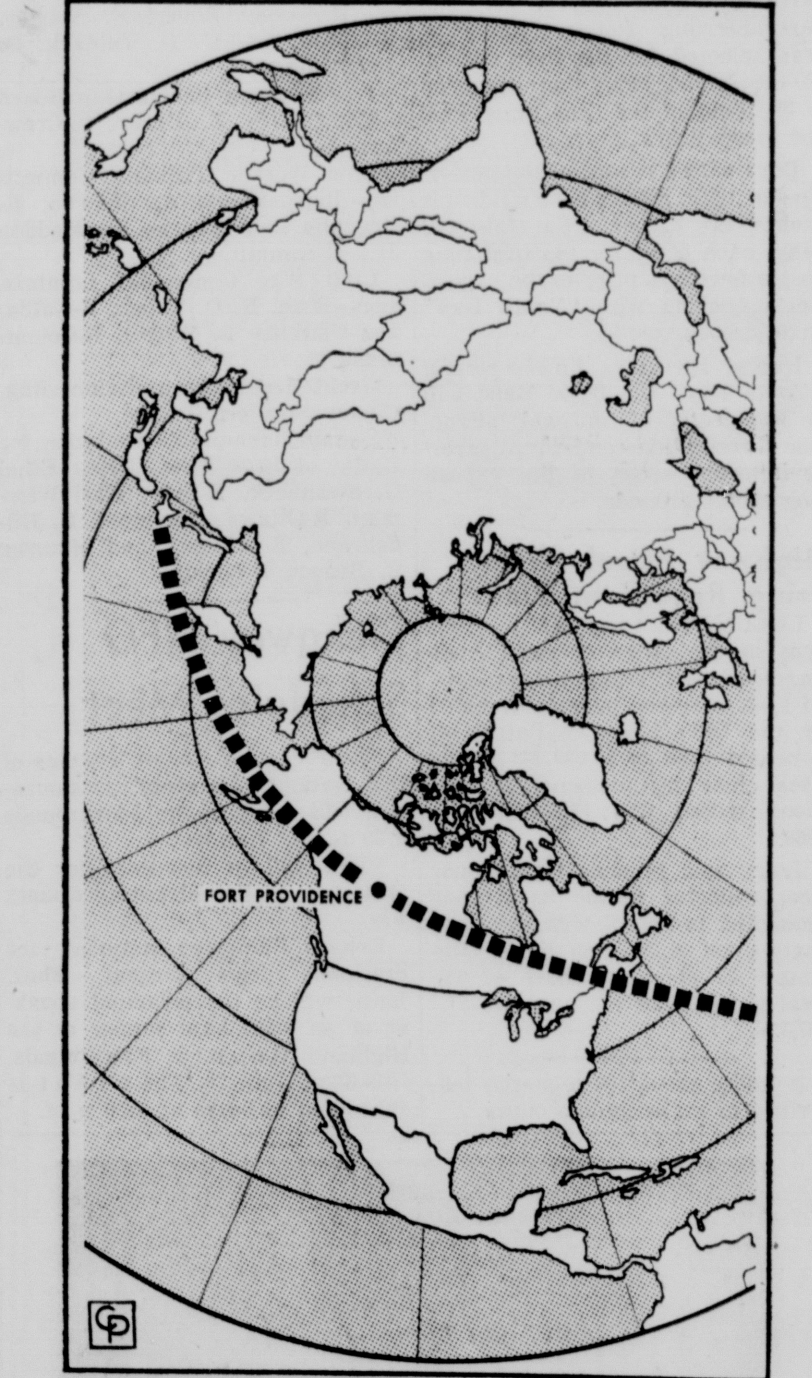

The Soliqua Garden Club held its sesquicentennial meeting.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Approximately 6,000 square feet of sidewalks and 1,300 lineal feet of curbs and gutters had been installed here under WPA.

County commissioners ordered seats in the Common Pleas courtroom repaired as they caused considerable noise when opened.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walters of Jackson Twp. observed their 25th wedding anniversary.

TOTAL ECLIPSE PATH—The broken line charts the July 20 total eclipse of the Sun. In areas farther south it is only a partial eclipse view. The eclipse begins over Japan's northern island, Hokkaido, and finally disappears over the Atlantic Ocean. Fort Providence, in Canada's Northwest Territories, is the base from which scientists will fly at an eight-mile altitude to photograph the eclipse. Totality lasts longest in this region. Since the 65-mile-wide shadow races across Earth at about 1,700 mph, they will be able to photograph the eclipse for only 144 seconds.

When someone jumps out of the pathway of an approaching automobile, the anger, the flush, the palpitation, the sweating occur in an infinitesimal fraction of a moment. But in that moment of stress hundreds of messages are sent out by hormones to the receiving stations in the endocrine gland system. Adrenalin is poured into the bloodstream, muscles are put under tension and all the body forces are immediately mobilized to meet the emergency.

Hundreds of daily experiences of a physical and emotional nature keep the endocrine system at a peak of perfect harmony.

Diseases like diabetes, rheumatic arthritis, nephrosis, and many others are inter-related with the hormone exchanges in all parts of the body.

Man should be very proud of the wonders he possesses with himself. And man must respect that possession. Man's debt to himself is to guard it and keep it in constant good health.

All new drugs, medicines and chemicals are studied from every conceivable angle before pharmaceutical manufacturers release them for public consumption. Laboratory studies, carefully controlled experiments and safe testing with patients must first thoroughly satisfy all their rigid requirements and those of state and federal laws.

Despite these carefully planned safety procedures, however, a patient may occasionally show some allergic sensitivity to an established safe drug.

The American Medical Association has created a new registry for the accumulation of data on adverse drug reactions. This central clearing house will coordinate its efforts with food and drug administrators, public health services and pharmaceutical manufacturers to safeguard the health of the nation.

A week or so ago they were writing Nelson Rockefeller off as the probable Republican nominee for President in 1964. Now, within the short space of a few days, some of the same people who were taking a Rocky collapse for granted are once more speaking hopefully about his chances.

The shift is indicative of the quicksands that lie in wait for the political prognosticators between now and convention time next summer. The point is, in this season of undecided issues, that nobody really knows which way seven or eight separate cats are about to jump. A couple of months back the Republicans thought Cuba might be the big 1964 issue; today, the consensus is that responses to civil rights will determine voting patterns. But other things may bulk larger on the horizon tomorrow, depending on what happens after the conclusion of the Soviet-Chinese Marxist policy talks and the nuclear test limitation negotiations.

As the political pros wet their fingers and stick them into to catch the breeze, two things have happened to revive the Rockefeller candidacy. The first is the eruption of a feeling that a limping tiger is better than no tiger. After ex-Senator Bush's blast against the circumstances of the Rockefeller remarriage, the eastern liberal Republicans looked around them wildly for another possible standard bearer. The rumor went around that ex-President Eisenhower had a secret preferred list of four, Governor Romney of Michigan, Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania, General Lucius Clay, and General Al Gruenther. But none of these men could be inflated to immediate tiger proportions. Nor did Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky excite much of a rumble.

Lacking a new tiger, the eastern pros looked once again at Nelson Rockefeller. What they saw was a man who had suddenly grabbed an issue and was off running. In the short space after the Governor's return from his Venezuela honeymoon, the limping tiger had managed to demonstrate that he could still get over the ground. With one thrust of a press release, Governor Rockefeller had managed to out - Kennedy the Kennedys on civil rights, and is now in position to make great mileage out of it at the governors' annual meeting in Miami Beach late in July.

There is no doubt that Rockefeller has done the one thing calculated to make people forget his marriage to a divorcee and, before that, the liquor scandals and tax troubles that had beset his New York State administration. The supporters of the Governor have taken the offensive against Goldwater, charging, in effect, that any Republican who would deliberately woo the South is guilty of lily-white betrayal of the Party of Abraham Lincoln. The theory is that no distinction will be made on election day in the big key states of the Northeast between moderates on the race issue and the most intemperate racists. Goldwater may have helped desegregate Phoenix, Arizona, but if he can be made to seem a tacit accomplice of Southern segregationists, the gamble is that the anti-lily whites among the Republicans can put Rockefeller over in a rush.

In putting himself at the head of the Negroes' push for rights, Rockefeller has taken a carefully calculated risk. It could take him into the convention in a strong position if he can carry the day in a few important primaries. But the risk assumes that the civil rights issue will still be the uppermost issue well into 1964.

This may indeed turn out to be the case. If President Kennedy is defeated by cloture in Congress in his hopes for an inclusive civil rights bill, and if Goldwater, along with Dirksen of Illinois, plays a significant part in that defeat, Rockefeller will be in a position to attract the support of anybody who has been disappointed by either the Democrats or the Congressional Republicans. But what if a moderately decent civil rights bill emerges from Congress for President Kennedy's signature? With the Negroes getting three-fourths of a loaf, could they make enough of an issue over the missing one-fourth to turn the Republican convention and the Autumn election into a knock-down and a drag-out battle over "lily-whiteness"? The marching of the Negroes is now accepted as zeal, but if it were to continue after a partial victory it could be taken as a measure of intemperance.

The whole subject is mined with unforeseeable hazards. And Cuba, or Castroism in Venezuela and Brazil, could be the big 1964 issue after all.

WHAT TO EXPECT—This is how the 1959 solar eclipse looked from a plane at 21,000 feet. The Moon is halfway across the Sun (right), followed by total eclipse (middle), then moves away (left). The July 20 sight will be similar.

All of Top Ohio Chieftains To Beat Drum for Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes and all of those in line to succeed to a vacancy in his office plan to fly to the national governor's conference.

Makeup of the big Ohio delegation to the annual session July 20-25 in Miami Beach, Fla., sent attorneys thumbing through their law books.

Aides of Atty. Gen. William Saxbe said the Ohio Constitution designates only three officials as successors. They said the line ends there.

As set forth, they currently are Lt. Gov. John Brown of Medina, Senate president pro tempore C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, and House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, in that order.

All plan to participate with Rhodes in extending an invitation for the 1964 or 1965 conference to meet in Cleveland.

The legislature at its recent session adopted an invitation resolution to be presented at the Florida conference.

"Cleveland is one of the nation's great cities," Rhodes pointed out. "We want to introduce the nation's governors to Cleveland and Ohio and we are confident that Cleveland will be a wonderful host city," he added.

Joining with the others in the invitation will be officials of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, aides of the governor and top legislators.

They include House majority leader Robert Reckman, R-Hamilton; House whip Harry Jump, R-Huron; Finance Director Richard Krabach and John McElroy, the governor's executive assistant. Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman and national committeeman, also may attend.

Curtis Lee Smith, Cleveland C. of C. president, said his organization has chartered a United Airlines plane for the Ohio delegation and a score of newsmen. A pre-conference visit to Nassau is on tap. The plane is scheduled to leave Cleveland July 18 and return July 25 with stops in Columbus.

Smith said he wanted the governors to see Cleveland's extensive downtown renewal construction.

Although Lieutenant Governor Brown and possibly others may fly to the conference in another plane, the exodus of all those in line of succession as chief executive prompted a close look at the state constitution.

Attorneys speculated that simulaneous vacancies in all four posts might require the legislature to pick a new president pro tempore to take over.

But they said the legislature won't return before that date. A special session call in the interim can be made only by the governor.

A new law, effective Sept. 30 provides for succession in Ohio but it applies only in event of disaster from enemy attack, attorneys explained.

Accompanying Rhodes will be his wife, Helen; their three daughters, Suzanne, Sharon and Sandra, and a prospective son-in-law, Richard Moore of Mariemont, Cincinnati suburb.

Making the trip from Columbus by commercial plane will be Dean Jauchius, administration coordinator, and Jerry Kaltenbach, bureau of motor vehicles cashier.

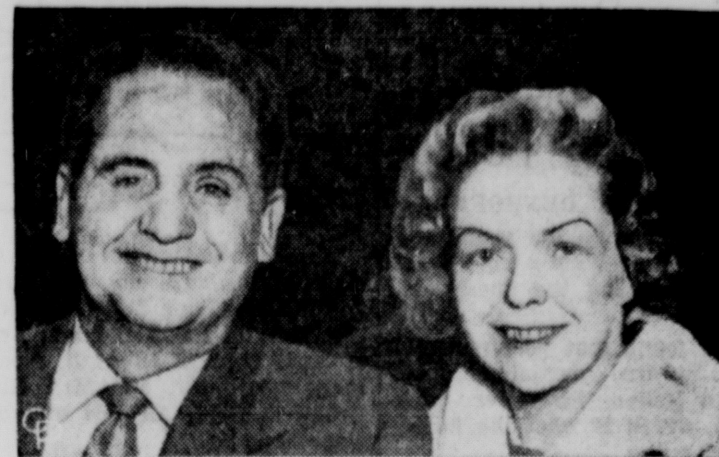

Former governors customarily having flown to conferences in an Ohio National Guard plane but Rhodes said he prefers to save taxpayers that expense.

Lausche Deplores Idled Atomic Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, says the government should not permit a labor union to idle the nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah.

Engineers, members of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, went on strike after a court upheld an arbitrator's decision holding their wages below those of deck officers.

Lausche said Thursday that if the ship can't be run by a private carrier the government should take over. He said the government should demonstrate that "this union can't thwart or strain the honor of our country."

IMITATION ADULTS

High comedy! They may not be actresses, but they're accomplished mimics.

Yet as I eavesdrop on their little game of pretending — well, as a mother, I'm just a bit frightened. How readily they pick up our characteristic poses and attitudes . . . always exaggerating to an extent . . . trying to be more like us than we are ourselves!

Then I remember the day John and I made that thoughtful decision to join the Church and raise our Children in a Christian home. What a difference that decision has made in our lives. And what a difference it is making in our children's lives.

There's no harm in youngsters imitating adults . . . so long as the adults they imitate are worth imitating!

Man, 87, Uses War Bonds To Keep Young, Build Church

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—S. M. Martin, once Eddyville's mayor, had a far-reaching plan in mind when he invested $6,000 in government bonds during World War II.

The proceeds plus some of his other savings have gone to build a nondenominational church on a knoll overlooking Lake Barkley.

Martin has invested about $20,000.

"It already has paid off in a way for me. I'm 87 years old, in reasonably good health," he said.

"This had a lot to do with my health. It gave me something to work for, something I really enjoy."

"I hope it will be something that will, in a general way, help bring unity to Christianity."

Martin, a Methodist and Sunday school teacher, recalled a revival conducted by a family of evangelists in nearby Kuttawa Springs.

"They said, 'I care not what your denomination may be, if you're a Christian, give me your hand.' That was the finest meeting I ever saw."

When Martin invested in the war bonds, he wrote this statement:

"I have decided that every community that is large enough to support one should have a central place of worship, where any honest person may go and feel free to worship, regardless of his belief regarding the mode of water baptism or other religious questions on which honest people differ. Therefore, I am investing in these bonds, not only to help my country win the war, but when the war is over, I am planning with divine guidance to use the bonds with interest to help erect a place of this kind."

The two-level building, 32 by 40, and a sheltered pavilion 40 by 60, were opened this spring.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The essence of Baha'i belief is that God has once more sent a messenger, Baha'u'llah, to recreate creation and give fresh life to mankind. Once more the breath of the Holy Spirit has been waited; once more the Face of God has shown upon the world. All things have been made new. The potency of former revelations has caused humanity to advance to a state in which it is capable of greater things than ever before. It has reached the age of maturity. Humanity's need has called forth the revelation that is now transforming human life."

The legislature at its recent session adopted an invitation resolution to be presented at the Florida conference.

"Cleveland is one of the nation's great cities," Rhodes pointed out. "We want to introduce the nation's governors to Cleveland and Ohio and we are confident that Cleveland will be a wonderful host city," he added.

Joining with the others in the invitation will be officials of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, aides of the governor and top legislators.

They include House majority leader Robert Reckman, R-Hamilton; House whip Harry Jump, R-Huron; Finance Director Richard Krabach and John McElroy, the governor's executive assistant.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman and national committeeman, also may attend.

Curtis Lee Smith, Cleveland C. of C. president, said his organization has chartered a United Airlines plane for the Ohio delegation and a score of newsmen. A pre-conference visit to Nassau is on tap. The plane is scheduled to leave Cleveland July 18 and return July 25 with stops in Columbus.

Smith said he wanted the governors to see Cleveland's extensive downtown renewal construction.

Although Lieutenant Governor Brown and possibly others may fly to the conference in another plane, the exodus of all those in line of succession as chief executive prompted a close look at the state constitution.

Attorneys speculated that si-laneous vacancies in all four posts might require the legislature to pick a new president pro tempore to take over.

But they said the legislature won't return before that date. A special session call in the interim can be made only by the governor.

A new law, effective Sept. 30 provides for succession in Ohio but it applies only in event of disaster from enemy attack, attorneys explained.

Accompanying Rhodes will be his wife, Helen; their three daughters, Suzanne, Sharon and Sandra, and a prospective son-in-law, Richard Moore of Mariemont, Cincinnati suburb.

Making the trip from Columbus by commercial plane will be Dean Jauchius, administration coordinator, and Jerry Kaltenbach, bureau of motor vehicles cashier.

Former governors customarily having flown to conferences in an Ohio National Guard plane but Rhodes said he prefers to save taxpayers that expense.

Lausche Deplores Idled Atomic Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, says the government should not permit a labor union to idle the nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah.

Engineers, members of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, went on strike after a court upheld an arbitrator's decision holding their wages below those of deck officers.

Lausche said Thursday that if the ship can't be run by a private carrier the government should take over. He said the government should demonstrate that "this union can't thwart or strain the honor of our country."

OFF THE RECORDS—Les Paul and Mary Ford (above) apparently end one of the most successful recording teams in history with filing of her suit in Los Angeles for separate maintenance. Cruelty, she charges.

IMITATION ADULTS

High comedy! They may not be actresses, but they're accomplished mimics.

Yet as I eavesdrop on their little game of pretending — well, as a mother, I'm just a bit frightened. How readily they pick up our characteristic poses and attitudes . . . always exaggerating to an extent . . . trying to be more like us than we are ourselves!

Then I remember the day John and I made that thoughtful decision to join the Church and raise our Children in a Christian home. What a difference that decision has made in our lives. And what a difference it is making in our children's lives.

There's no harm in youngsters imitating adults . . . so long as the adults they imitate are worth imitating!

Man, 87, Uses War Bonds To Keep Young, Build Church

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—S. M. Martin, once Eddyville's mayor, had a far-reaching plan in mind when he invested $6,000 in government bonds during World War II.

The proceeds plus some of his other savings have gone to build a nondenominational church on a knoll overlooking Lake Barkley.

Martin has invested about $20,000.

"It already has paid off in a way for me. I'm 87 years old, in reasonably good health," he said.

"This had a lot to do with my health. It gave me something to work for, something I really enjoy."

"I hope it will be something that will, in a general way, help bring unity to Christianity."

Martin, a Methodist and Sunday school teacher, recalled a revival conducted by a family of evangelists in nearby Kuttawa Springs.

"They said, 'I care not what your denomination may be, if you're a Christian, give me your hand.' That was the finest meeting I ever saw."

When Martin invested in the war bonds, he wrote this statement:

"I have decided that every community that is large enough to support one should have a central place of worship, where any honest person may go and feel free to worship, regardless of his belief regarding the mode of water baptism or other religious questions on which honest people differ.

Therefore, I am investing in these bonds, not only to help my country win the war, but when the war is over, I am planning with divine guidance to use the bonds with interest to help erect a place of this kind."

The two-level building, 32 by 40, and a sheltered pavilion 40 by 60, were opened this spring.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The essence of Baha'i belief is that God has once more sent a messenger, Baha'u'llah, to recreate creation and give fresh life to mankind. Once more the breath of the Holy Spirit has been wafted; once more the Face of God has shown upon the world. All things have been made new. The potency of former revelations has caused humanity to advance to a state in which it is capable of greater things than ever before. It has reached the age of maturity. Humanity's need has called forth the revelation that is now transforming human life."

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren
It's Really Simple!

DEAR ABBY: We would like to drop a few people from our Christmas gift list, but I don't know how to go about it gracefully. I'd like to notify them before the shopping season starts so they won't buy us anything. We hardly ever see them during the year and rarely talk on the phone. In fact, the last few years when we delivered gifts to each other, the gesture seemed so insincere it was embarrassing. Maybe these people would like to drop us from their Christmas gift list, too, but don't know how to go about it. Your reply in print would help many people.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If you think exchanging gifts in an atmosphere of insincerity is embarrassing, wait until you try to tell them not to buy you anything because you aren't buying them anything. Take them off your gift list and send them a Christmas card. And the following Christmas you'll be off their gift list, too.

DAR ABBY: I was married in January. I had several showers given for me and received many beautiful gifts. I am expecting a baby in September. My aunt wants to give me a baby shower. She'll be inviting exactly the same friends and relatives who gave me wedding shower gifts. Don't you think it's too soon to be asking for more gifts?

EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: Yes, Dear. Your aunt is expecting too much too soon.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and here is my problem: What is going to become of our nation if we kids grow up with nothing but filth all around us? No wonder there is so much juvenile delinquency. All we ever see are sex magazines and sexy movies. I want to grow up in a clean nation and have clean friends. Remember, it's the kids of today who will be running the nation before long.

DEAR FOURTEEN: You are to be admired for protesting the in-

Hillbilly Shows Due At '63 State Fair

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

It's Really Simple!

DEAR ABBY: We would like to drop a few people from our Christmas gift list, but don't know how to go about it gracefully. I'd like to notify them before the shopping season starts so they won't buy us anything. We hardly ever see them during the year and rarely talk on the phone. In fact, the last few years when we delivered gifts to each other, the gesture seemed so insincere it was embarrassing. Maybe these people would like to drop us from their Christmas gift list, too, but don't know how to go about it. Your reply in print would help many people.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If you think exchanging gifts in an atmosphere of insincerity is embarrassing, wait until you try to tell them not to buy you anything because you aren't buying them anything. Take them off your gift list and send them a Christmas card. And the following Christmas you'll be off their gift list, too.

DAR ABBY: I was married in January. I had several showers given for me and received many beautiful gifts. I am expecting a baby in September. My aunt wants to give me a baby shower. She'll be inviting exactly the same friends and relatives who gave me wedding shower gifts. Don't you think it's too soon to be asking for more gifts?

EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: Yes, Dear Your aunt is expecting too much too soon.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and here is my problem: What is going to become of our nation if we kids grow up with nothing but filth all around us? No wonder there is so much juvenile delinquency. All we ever see are sex magazines and sexy movies. I want to grow up in a clean nation and have clean friends. Remember, it's the kids of today who will be running the nation before long.

FOURTEEN

DEAR FOURTEEN: You are to be admired for protesting the increase of filth in our culture. But if all you see are "sex magazines and sexy movies", you're not looking hard enough. Fine literature and worthwhile movies are still available in abundance for those who want them. When more people concentrate on the good, the wholesome, and the spiritual, filth will become unprofitable and lose its reason for being.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SUSPICIOUS BUT NEEDS PROOF: If you found YOUR razor wet, it must have been a pretty close shave for some gay blade. Why don't you ask your wife?

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hillbilly Shows Due At '63 State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Visitors to the 1963 Ohio State Fair will probably get a chance to see the television stars of two hillbilly shows and a western, a popular singer and an all-girl auto thrill show, in addition to the hundreds of other regular attractions.

The State Controlling Board gave the Ohio Exposition Commission permission Thursday to sign contracts with The Real McCoy, one of the hillbilly shows, and the stars of the "Virginian" for a four-day appearance at the fair.

Also approved were proposed contracts with singer Johnny Mathis and the Rotoff Thrill Spectacular. A contract with the television show, Beverly Hillbillies, still is being negotiated.

Distributed by the Public Health Service, the grant is part of $4.2 million authorized by congress to support comprehensive mental health planning in the various states.

Quaint Quartet Paces Amateur

2 Ohioans To Remain For Sunday's Match

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—A quaint quartet, none new to golf's throne rooms, wheeled into today's 36-hole semifinal matches in the 57th Ohio Amateur championship at Elyria Country Club.

One survivor of the starting field of 233 is in his teens, one in his 20s, one in his 30s, and one in his 40s.

Scattered in their wake after Friday's two 18-hole rounds were such talented stars as defending champion Tony Blom Jr. of Cincinnati and medalist Jim Brown of Martins Ferry.

Today's program in which the two-man cast for Sunday's 36-hole championship round would be decided sent Dan Carmichael, 44, of Columbus against Carl Unis, 25, a Cleveland public links entrant, and Bob Bourne Jr., 19, of Oberlin against Paul Minnich, 31, of Elyria.

Carmichael, who had a 27-hole no-bogey string Friday until the 17th hole of his quarterfinals match is an architect, winner of the 1960 title, a jet pilot, sports car racing driver, and a naval air ace of World War II with Jap planes in his credit.

Unis, long hier, won the district caddy title on this course eight years ago, but Carmichael's steady play was expected to turn him back and erase the last of the 24 public course contestants.

Bourne, a blond bomber from the tees and a precision putter, won the 1962 Mid-American Junior match play crown, and is a student at the University of Houston.

Minnich, who manufactures business forms, was on Notre Dame's varsity for two years and has held the host club championship four times.

Legion, Coke Earn Victories In LL Majors

2nd Round Playoff Held Today between Elks, American Legion

The American Legion edged past The Herald yesterday, 5-4, throwing the Legion into a tie with the Elks for first place in the second round of action in the Little League majors. The play-off was slated for this morning.

Coke downed Bingham Drugs, 10-4, with Dale Byrd stealing the limelight. He clobbered a grand slam home run and hurled a five-hitter.

Hopie Hopkins recorded the win for the Legion, giving up six hits, whiffing seven and walking two.

Dave Justice took the loss, fanning six and walking one. Ron Stevens helped him and fanned three.

BOOSTING the Legion to the win was Frank Carter. He caught a line drive in the third with the bases stacked, touched third and fired to second for a triple play.

Then he went to bat and cracked a homer and a single. Ron Neaf hammered a double, but the game was won when Hopkins got on base with the score tied in the sixth inning, moved to third and then scored on Howard Loveshire's long sacrifice fly.

Ron Stevens and Dave Justice plastered triples in the loss, and Bill Thomas poled a double.

Byrd's five-hitter was highlighted by his 11 strike outs and two walks. Dan Fausnaugh, losing hurler, fanned five and walked five, and his aid, Marion Long, whiffed one and walked one.

Swatter Byrd cracked his four run bagger in the fourth frame. Dick Walters poled a triple and Mike Barnes rammed a double for the fast moving Coke nine.

Babe Ruth All-Stars Lose at Springfield

The Babe Ruth All-Stars lost a tournament game at Springfield Municipal Stadium yesterday, 6-5, to Springfield American.

Both teams matched runs in the first and second innings with the score at 3-3 as the fourth frame began.

In the first inning Joe Winner walked, started to steal second and then scored when the catcher made a wild throw. In the second, Steve Dade led off with a double, moved to third on an error and scored on Chet Hill's single. George Hill cracked a double, scoring Chet to give the Roundtowners their three runs.

IN THE THIRD inning, the side was retired in order on a routine ground ball to shortstop who made the throw to first, and a pair of strikeouts.

But the Roundtowners exploded in the fourth, taking a short lived lead. Dade again led off, hitting a single. He stole second, and then tallied when George Hill doubled.

Mansil Hurlburt followed Hill, slugging a triple, the longest Circleville hit of the game.

In the fifth inning Steve Dade doubled — he was three for three for Circleville, as was George Hill — but he failed to score. Hill's single in the sixth was the last Roundtown hit.

The locals scored five runs on a total of eight hits and two Springfield errors, three bases on balls.

The fifth was the big inning for the winners. With two out, they parleyed three hits and a pair of walks into three runs.

BILL STREHLE was charged with the loss. He was relieved in the fifth by Tom Cassill, who faced one batter.

Dave Iery started the sixth inning and retired the side in order in the final two frames. He struck out four of the six batters he faced.

VEW hurler, Terry Hull threw a neat five-hitter, and posted the win. The losing third hurler was Bill Gillian. He fired a seven hit and took the loss.

Hull and Carl Hoffman had identical times at the plate, each swatting a triple, double and a single and Owens poled a triple.

Savings Bank, VFW Win BR Minor Tilts

In the Babe Ruth minor circuit, the Savings Bank extended its win string to 10 yesterday as hurler Rodger Clark shut out Kochheiser, 7-0, on a four-hitter.

Also in this circuit, VFW trounced the Third Bankers 13-8, on a five hit output by Terry Hull.

Clark controlled the opposing bats from start to finish, allowing only four scattered singles in the four inning tilt. In winning, he whiffed five and walked three.

Starting Hardware hurler Dale Jenne had hard luck in his initial stanza. He walked five, allowed 10 hits, gave up 17 runs and let the Savings swatters bat around 21-3 times before retiring the side.

He was lifted in favor of Mike Turner.

TURNER had better luck. He pitched the last three frames and in doing so allowed 10 runs on 10 hits, walked two and whiffed five.

It was a good night for the Bankers hitters as Dick Cook banged two triples and single to lead his team. Charlie Palmer poked a triple and a double, Clark swatted two two-baggers, Woodward poled a double and three singles, Sark clouted a double and a single and Marion Corne collected two singles.

Bob Young, Jerry Young, Bob Burton and John Stevenson all socked singles for the Hardwaremen, who remain in second place behind the Savings crew. The Hardwaremen are 5-5, while the Bankers are 10-0.

VEW hurler, Terry Hull threw a neat five-hitter, and posted the win. The losing third hurler was Bill Gillian. He fired a seven hit and took the loss.

Legion, Coke Earn Victories In LL Majors

2nd Round Playoff Held Today between Elks, American Legion

The American Legion edged past The Herald yesterday, 5-4, throwing the Legion into a tie with the Elks for first place in the second round of action in the Little League majors. The play-off was slated for this morning.

Coke downed Bingman Drugs, 10-4, with Dale Byrd stealing the limelight. He clobbered a grand slam home run and hurled a five-hitter.

Hopie Hopkins recorded the win for the Legion, giving up six hits, whiffing seven and walking two.

Dave Justice took the loss, fanning six and walking one. Ron Stevens helped him and fanned three.

BOOSTING the Legion to the win was Frank Carter. He caught a line drive in the third with the bases stacked, touched third and fired to second for a triple play.

Then he went to bat and cracked a homer and a single. Ron Neal hammered a double, but the game was won when Hopkins got on base with the score tied in the sixth inning, moved to third and then scored on Howard Loveshire's long sacrifice fly.

Ron Stevens and Dave Justice plastered triples in the loss, and Bill Thomas poled a double.

Byrd's five-hitter was highlighted by his 11 strike outs and two walks. Dan Fausnaugh, losing hurler, fanned five and walked five, and his aid, Marion Long, whiffed one and walked one.

Swatter Byrd cracked his fourth run four bagger in the fourth frame. Dick Walters poled a triple and Mike Barnes rammed a double for the fast moving Coke nine.

Jack Jenkins smashed three singles in three at bats to place his team.

Frisco Pair To Battle for Publinx Title

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Steve Oppermann and Bob Lunn, two powerful young San Francisco golfing acquaintances who never had met in match play, tangle at 36 holes today for the National Public Links Championship.

Oppermann, a 6-foot 195-pounder who spent the last 3 1/2 years "just playing golf," unleashed his deadly irons on the back nine of Friday's second semifinal round for a 4 and 3 victory over veteran Dante Vicini of Ottawa, Ill.

Lunn, nearly two inches taller but 15 pounds lighter, ousted hometown favorite Jerry Yuke 3 and 1 by dropping birdie putts on two of the last three holes.

Neither Lunn, an 18-year-old who couldn't even win the city high school title this year, nor Oppermann, 21, would admit to any shakiness at the prospect of playing for the most important title of their young careers.

"I play the course, not the man," said Lunn. "I just try to keep from making any bogies."

Babe Ruth All-Stars Lose at Springfield

The Babe Ruth All-Stars lost a tournament game at Springfield Municipal Stadium yesterday, 6-5, to Springfield American.

Both teams matched runs in the first and second innings with the score at 3-3 as the fourth frame began.

In the first inning Joe Winner walked, started to steal second and then scored when the catcher made a wild throw. In the second, Steve Dade led off with a double.

Challenge Stakes Slated at Downs

The Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes will hold its second studded attraction of the year Saturday night, when seven brilliant 3-year-old trotters line up behind the gate to vie for the $7,838.00 purse and the beautiful sterling silver trophy.

B. F. Coalton, owned by the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus, holds a slight edge over Scotch Vanity and Stormy Tartan on the morning line, and Lucy's Victory is just returning to her peak form of this year when she finished second by three quarters of a length in 2:03.

Three Scioto Downs favorites, Jill Mon, Pone, and Princess Hilda round out the select seven horse field in the featured eighth race.

B. F. Coalton with the talented Carl Larson at the helm posted a win this year at Monticello Raceway in 2:05 1-5. Last week at Goshen, New York, he finished second and sixth to the great Speedy Scot. Last year B. F. captured the 2-year-old trotting division of the Challenge Stakes in 2:03 3-5.

Scotch Vanity, owned by Jim and Marion Radabaugh of Cincinnati, is just fresh from a victory in 2:06 3-5 at Northville Downs in Detroit, and in seven starts this year has three wins and two seconds.

Stormy Tartan, owned by Buck Minniear of Aiken, S. C. comes to the Challenge Stakes off three straight victories at Northfield Park in Cleveland the fastest time in 2:08. Minniear has placed this exceptional colt in the very capable hands of driver Charlie Norris, Jr.

Lucy's Victory, owned by Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati, was just hitting her peak earlier this year, when she was sidelined by the virus.

Jim Edwards, will take his entry, Fill Mon, out of the gate next to Scotch Vanity who drew the pole position, and Sam Calli will go with Pone who has scored in 2:12 1-5 this year. Along side of Pone comes Princess Hilda with George Ursitti in the sulky.

He succeeded over the final 17 holes of his 35-hole semifinal match.

Oppermann said he does the same, but added he prefers medal play to the match play format of the publinx.

Lunn is in his first publinx but Oppermann advanced to last year's third round before losing.

Clark controlled the opposing bats from start to finish, allowing only four scattered singles in the four inning tilt. In winning, he whiffed five and walked three.

Starting Hardware hurler Dale Jenne had hard luck in his initial stanza. He walked five, allowed 10 hits, gave up 17 runs and let the Savings swatters bat around 21-3 times before retiring the side. He was lifted in favor of Mike Turner.

TURNER had better luck. He pitched the last three frames and in doing so allowed 10 runs on 15 hits, walked two and whiffed five.

It was a good night for the Bankers hitters as Dick Cook banged two triples and single to lead his team. Charlie Palmer poked a triple and a double, Clark swatted two two-baggers, Woodward poled a double and three singles, Sark clouted a double and a single and Marion Corne collected two singles.

Bob Young, Jerry Young, Bob Burton and John Stevenson all socked singles for the Hardwaremen, who remain in second place behind the Savings crew. The Hardwaremen are 5-5, while the Bankers are 10-0.

VFW hurler, Terry Hull threw a neat five-hitter, and posted the win. The losing Third hurler was Bill Gillian. He fired a seven hitter and took the loss.

Hull and Carl Hoffman had identical times at the plate, each swatted a triple, double and a single and Owens poled a triple. Joe Keaton popped a double for his teams only extra base blow.

Howard CLINE tagged two triples and a double and a single for four hits. Joe Reeser doubled once and singled two times, Randy Young socked one triple and two singles, Dave Truex collected a homerun and two singles and Jim Ramey had a triple and a single.

The Dairyemen collected only two hits, a single by Goldsberry

In loving memory of our beloved father, Russell Cupp, who passed away one year ago today, July 13, 1962. You are not forgotten, Father. Nor will you ever be. We will remember thee. One year has passed since that sad day. The day that you were called away. They say time heals all sorrows, and helps us to forget. But so far it has only proven. How much we miss you, yet. In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father, Russell C. Culp, who passed away one year ago today, July 13, 1962. You are not forgotten, Father. Nor will you ever be. We will remember thee. One year has passed since that sad day. The day that you were called away. They say time heals all sorrows, and helps us to forget. But so far it has only proven. How much we miss you yet. Sadly missed by sons and daughters.

British Open Playoff Slated

New Zealander Vies
With Californian

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Butterball Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and skinny left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand met today in a 36-hole playoff for the British Open Golf Championship, and a crack at a fortune.

The winner qualifies for the Akron, Ohio "World Series" in September, which carries a first prize of $50,000.

For the Open here, the first prize is only $4,200 but the prestige value is tremendous.

Rodgers, 25-year-old ex-Marine, who is perky and porky at 5-foot-8 and 200 pounds, shot 67-68-73-69 for 277 Friday. The 23-year-old Charles, who is 6-foot and weighs only 140, put together 68-72-66-71 for his 277.

Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Masters champion lost a great chance at the title by taking bogey 5 on the 17th and 18th holes of the final round for 278. He had 71-67-70-70.

Rodgers and Charles knew they had to finish 3-4-4, one birdie and two pars, to catch Nicklaus and they did just that.

The thrilling finish enthralled a gallery of 5,000 under brilliant sunshine and ideal playing conditions on the 6,757 yard, par 70 Royal Lytham and St. Annes links.

The playoff repeated history. Five years ago, Peter Thomson of Australia tied Dave Thomas of Britain on this very course and went on to win his fourth British Open title. Thomson finished badly with a 78 Friday to rack up 285 for fifth place. Just ahead of him was Kel Nagle, the 1960 Open king, with 283.

Gone from the scene was Arnold Palmer, winner the last two years. The leading American money winner never got started at Royal Lytham and finished in a tie for 26th place with 76-71-71-76—294. He said afterwards:

"I'm tired. I'll play in the U.S. PGA and then I may take another rest."

SECOND IS SUCCESS—A finalist in 1961 tourney, Chuck McKinley, 22-year-old math student at Trinity university, Trinity, Tex., is the new Wimbledon singles champ, first American to cop the tennis crown since 1955. He probably will turn pro now.

Triplett Liked In Browns Trial

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns says if back Mel Triplett can improve on pass catching, "I see no reason he couldn't be a starter."

The former New York Giants fullback is getting the once-over as a possible running mate for fullback Jim Brown. At 225 pounds, which is below his playing weight of last season with the Minnesota Vikings, Triplett has distinguished himself in his two days at the Browns' rookie training camp with his hard running.

Triplett, 32, declares he's fully recovered from a knee injury suffered near the end of last season.

Rookie camp closed today with a morning session. Those who impressed Collier will be invited to the regular camp starting July 22.

Koufax Quells Fear To Regain Pitching Form

Sandy Wins His 15th
After Bout against Injured Index Finger

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I was scared to death I'd never pitch again."

That's Sandy Koufax, remembering how things were exactly a year ago.

The brilliant left-hander was in the middle of a spectacular season and the Los Angeles Dodgers were sailing ahead in the National League race on July 12, 1962 at the Polo Grounds in New York.

A numb index finger on his pitching hand forced Koufax to the sidelines after he had blanked the Mets through seven innings. He was credited with the victory his 14th—but it was his last of the year. The circulatory ailment later idled him for over two months, and the Dodgers wound up losing the pennant to the San Francisco Giants.

But the frightened and disabled Koufax of a year ago is now the hottest pitcher in baseball—a fact he emphasized Friday night, on the anniversary of that dark chapter in his career.

Again at the Polo Grounds and again facing the Mets, he fired a three-hit 6-0 triumph. The shut-out was his third in a row and ninth of the season; the victory his eighth straight and 15th of the year—high in the majors. His 13 strikeouts boosted his total to 163, tops in the big leagues, and he lowered his earned run average to 1.64 in his 13th complete game.

The Dodgers? They've won five in succession and have a five-game grip on first place.

The Philadelphia Phillies tumbled the second-place Giants another length behind, 7-5, despite the continued long-range hitting of Willie McCovey.

St. Louis beat Milwaukee 5-3; Chicago trimmed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh shaded Houston 2-1.

The Phils rapped Jack Sanford for four runs in the first inning and three in the fifth, with doubles by Roy Sievers, Don Demeter and Clay Dalrymple the telling blows. McCovey smacked two-run homers for the Giants in the third and eighth—his 25th and 26th—and Harvey Kuenn homered for San Francisco in the eighth. Winner Art Mahaffey was chased in the eighth, but Jack Baldschun checked the Giants the rest of the way.

The Cardinals clinched it with a four-run third inning, capped by Gary Kolb's first major league homer. Bob Gibson won his ninth, with relief from Barney Schultz, and Tony Cloninger was the loser. Gene Oliver and Mack Jones homered for Milwaukee.

The Cubs collected 13 hits in dealing southpaw Jim O'Toole his fourth straight loss. Ernie Banks had a homer in the Cub attack, the 351st of his career for a seventh-place tie with Ralph Kiner on the all-time National League list. Bob Buhl was the winning pitcher, beating the Reds for only the second time in his 11 NL seasons.

Pittsburgh overcame Houston with two runs in the sixth on Dick Schofield's homer and successive singles by Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell. Don Schwall got the pitching victory and Bob Bruce was the loser.

Doubleday Field at West Point is named after Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, Army class of 1842.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elihu Zimbalist Jr., bereft of his buddies and even his office, was starting the sixth season of "77 Sunset Strip," a series for which he has expressed distaste.

Yet he seemed genuinely delighted with his lot, which happens to be Warner Brothers.

"I couldn't be happier," he remarked.

The cause of his happiness appears to be Warner's Jack Webb. Chosen new head of television programming, Webb worked fast to save "77 Sunset Strip," which had been marked for extinction. Webb's ideas for altering the series won a reprieve.

The plan was bold. Swept out were all the regulars except Zimbalist—partner Roger Smith, teen favorite Edd Byrnes, comic Louis Quinn, receptionist Jacqueline Beer, cop Byron Keith.

Even the detective agency next to Dino's restaurant lapsed into limbo.

"I now operate out of an office downtown," said Zimbalist.

"But the biggest change has been in the scripts," he added. "And that is why I am delighted with the new setup. The scripts we did during the first five years were garbage. They were simply awful. We would have shows with Louie holding up people with guns and solving mysteries. Louis is a good comedian. But that kind of plot was utterly ridiculous."

Zimbalist is also pleased with the guest stars, who have included names like Joseph Cotten and Jo Van Fleet. There are indications that the series will be going on locations, instead of being bound to the Burbank studio.

Varsity basketball player Don Floberg of Lake Geneva, Wis., was medalist with a 73 in the intramural golf tournament over Michigan State's Forest Akers course this spring.

"I was scared to death I'd never pitch again."

That's Sandy Koufax, remembering how things were exactly a year ago.

The brilliant left-hander was in the middle of a spectacular season and the Los Angeles Dodgers were sailing ahead in the National League race on July 12, 1962 at the Polo Grounds in New York.

A numb index finger on his pitching hand forced Koufax to the sidelines after he had blanked the Mets through seven innings. He was credited with the victory his 14th—but it was his last of the year. The circulatory ailment later idled him for over two months, and the Dodgers wound up losing the pennant to the San Francisco Giants.

But the frightened and disabled Koufax of a year ago is now the hottest pitcher in baseball—a fact he emphasized Friday night, on the anniversary of that dark chapter in his career.

Again at the Polo Grounds and again facing the Mets, he fired a three-hit 6-0 triumph. The shut-out was his third in a row and ninth of the season; the victory his eighth straight and 15th of the year—high in the majors. His 13 strikeouts boosted his total to 163, tops in the big leagues, and he lowered his earned run average to 1.64 in his 13th complete game.

The Dodgers? They've won five in succession, and have a five-game grip on first place.

The Philadelphia Phillies tumbled the second-place Giants another length behind, 7-5, despite the continued long-range hitting of Willie McCovey.

St. Louis beat Milwaukee 5-3; Chicago trimmed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh shaded Houston 2-1.

The Phils rapped Jack Sanford for four runs in the first inning and three in the fifth, with doubles by Roy Sievers, Don Demeter and Clay Dalrymple the telling blows. McCovey smacked two-run homers for the Giants in the third and eighth—the 25th and 26th—and Harvey Kuenn homered for San Francisco in the eighth. Winner Art Mahaffey was chased in the eighth, but Jack Baldschun checked the Giants the rest of the way.

The Cardinals clinched it with a four-run third inning, capped by Gary Kolb's first major league homer. Bob Gibson won his ninth, with relief from Barney Schultz, and Tony Cloninger was the loser. Gene Oliver and Mack Jones homered for Milwaukee.

The Cubs collected 13 hits in dealing southpaw Jim O'Toole his fourth straight loss. Ernie Banks had a homer in the Cub attack, the 351st of his career for a seventh-place tie with Ralph Kiner on the all-time National League list. Bob Buhl was the winning pitcher, beating the Reds for only the second time in his 11 NL seasons.

Pittsburgh overcame Houston with two runs in the sixth on Dick Schofield's homer and successive singles by Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell. Don Schwall got the pitching victory and Bob Bruce was the loser.

The other girl referred to would be Christine's friend, Mandy Rice-Davies, who also figured in the scandal. Macmillan's remark seemed to push further into the background prospects that he would resign soon. "I had to see this through. Indian Lake Riot Penalties Stiffened

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP) — Fines and sentences meted out to July 4 rioters at the Indian Lake resort area were tougher this year than the past two as officials sought to discourage a fourth incident next year.

Mayor Eugene Gooding heard Friday night the last of nearly 50 cases in which youths were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, obstructing an officer, or drinking intoxicants on public property.

In all but one case, fines ranging from $10 to $100 were collected, either after pleas of guilty or by bond forfeitures.

Birns Freed On Bond in Death Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alex (Shondor) Birns was free on $50,000 bond today after spending less than a day and a half in jail for questioning in the slaying of investment promoter Mervin L. Gold.

A decision was expected in Common Pleas Criminal Court today by Judge William K. Thomas on whether to reduce the amount of Birns' bond. The bond was set by Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel Gerber to assure Birns' presence at an inquest into Gold's death, scheduled for next Wednesday.

Birns, 58, was released late Friday after the second of his two court appearances. In the morning session he won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

In the afternoon session, Birns' lawyer sought to have the bond reduced to personal bond, involving no cash.

"There is no charge against Birns," he argued. "He is held only for investigation, and there is no such crime."

A file cabinet taken from Birns' home was opened in the office of Cleveland Police Chief Richard Wagner. In it were two revolvers and papers detectives said were of a "business type, the kind you'd usually throw away."

Gold was found beaten, strangled and shot in the trunk of his car in suburban solon Monday night.

Morgan's Raid in Ohio Took Place Just 100 Years Ago during July

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frightened Indiana and Ohio got their first and only touch of actual fighting in the Civil War just 100 years ago this month.

It was the famous "Morgan's Raid" in which the colorful Confederate general John Hunt Morgan, led a force of slightly more than 2,000 cavalymen through southern Indiana, swept around Cincinnati and then headed north east along the Ohio side of the Ohio River until final surrender near West Point, Columbus County.

Morgan crossed into Indiana from Brandenburg, Ky., on July 8, 1863. His dash through Union territory ended with the surrender on July 26.

Historians and biographers still don't agree as to just what the raid accomplished from a strictly military standpoint.

Newspaper and historical accounts agree, however, that there were a lot of frightened people in both Indiana and Ohio and even as far west as Illinois. "The Rebels are coming,"

Cincinnati was placed under martial law as Morgan and his men headed from Harrison, Ohio. He veered north, however, through what now is Mt. Healthy and then into Clermont County on the east side of Cincinnati.

Basil W. Duke, Morgan's brother-in-law and second in command on the raid, wrote in an 1867 biography of Morgan that the Confederate general never intended to try to take Cincinnati. There were too many federal troops too close at hand.

All along the route there was pillaging, destruction of telegraph lines, burning of bridges, commandeering of horses to replace spent animals and frequent skirmishes with home guards, militia and federal troops.

Historians have figured the raid cost more than 200 northern lives with 350 other casualties while Morgan had about 300 men killed or wounded. It also has been figured the raid cost Ohio more than $1 million.

None of those figures seem very impressive in terms of present day war but they were in 1863.

Burglary Probed At Local Garage

Sheriff Walton W. Spangler today investigated a burglary at Harden's Chevrolet Garage, W. Main St.

Intruders gained entry through a window on the west side of the building. Three softdrink machines were forced. About $15 in change was reported missing.

The burglars then entered an office and after ransacking a desk, took a tape recorder. Officers also reported a quart of oil and several gallons of gasoline were missing.

The incident was discovered at 3:50 a. m. today by Patrolman Homer Adams.

Ironically, Morgan made the raid by disobeying orders.

Confederate Gen. Braxton Bragg, hard pressed in Tennessee, wanted to retreat to make a stand near Chattanooga. He feared interception by federal forces in Kentucky. He approved a diversionary raid by Morgan into Kentucky to tie down the federals but he rejected Morgan's idea of moving into Indiana and Ohio.

Morgan, driving north from Burkesville, Tenn., took matters into his own hands, however, when he reached Brandenburg, Ky. and he started the raid he had been thinking about. He had his mind set on invading Union territory.

And from a military standpoint, it must have worked. Bragg made his withdrawal without interception.

After crossing into Indiana, Morgan first hit Corydon, the old state capital. Then he went on to Salem and Vernon. There was a brief skirmish with home guards at Salem. A larger force was encountered at Vernon but Morgan got around it by giving them time to remove civilians.

Morgan had started out with about 2,400 men but when he reached Harrison, Ohio, on July 13 he had less than 2,000. The march around Cincinnati was made at night. There was skirmish with pickets at Camp Dennison, near Cincinnati, and the raiders pushed right on to Williamsburg in Clermont County.

By that time, they had covered 90 miles in 35 hours.

There was panic in southern Ohio.

Gov. David Tod declared martial law for Cincinnati on July 12 and ordered the militia to active duty in 32 counties.

As Morgan went around Cincinnati he was being pursued by Federal forces under Gen. Edward H. Hobson.

At Williamsburg, Morgan divided his forces, one group angling south through Georgetown and the other heading east through Mt. Orab and Sardinia. They rejoined at Locust Grove on July 15.

Jackson and Pickett were pillaged as the raiders moved on. There was a skirmish at Berlin and then on July 19 came more or less of a major engagement with Federal troops as the Confederates sought to get back across the river at Portland and Buffington Island.

The exhausted raiders were running short of ammunition. The Federals captured about 700 of them but the remainder headed back northeast. With only a few hundred troops left, Morgan swept to Reedsville where another attempt to cross the river was unsuccessful.

The exhausted men drove on and met another volunteer infantry group at Eaglesport. On July 24 there was another clash with Federal troops at Old Washington. The raiders kept on but it all came to an end with the surrender near West Point.

Morgan sought to dictate his own surrender terms — parole of his men. He claimed there was agreement to that but that it was abrogated.

Morgan was among those imprisoned in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. He and four companions escaped four months later and got back to the South, but the raider general was killed in Tennessee less than a year later.

Towns throughout much of the area are holding centennial observances of the raid this month and there are many markers to show what happened where.

Ohioans may feel some concern today about the atom or hydrogen bomb but just 100 years ago they really were frightened — the Rebels were coming.

Picketing To Continue At Governor's Mansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Columbus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) has pledged that demonstrations in front of the Governor's Mansion will be continued "indefinitely" as part of the group's campaign for fair housing legislation in Ohio.

The Rev. Arthur A. Webb said the pickets are asking Gov. James A. Rhodes to call a special summer session of the legislature to act on a fair housing law. The legislature is in recess until Dec. 2.

Dayton Man Fights To Curtail Binge

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton man who claims all forms of bingo are illegal has pledged to take his case to the governor, if necessary, in order to get "charity" bingo games shut down here.

Immanuel Nadin told Montgomery County Sheriff Bernard Keiter in a letter Friday it is his responsibility to see to it that the so-called "charity" games are closed down. Fraternal and labor groups resumed holding bingo games last month after city officials decided they legally could be conducted for charity under certain conditions he outlined.

Youthful Thieves Told To Write 25-Page Essay

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Three young boys charged with stealing fishing tackle were fined $25 each by Juvenile Court Judge Glenn E. Detling. The youths also were ordered to check a book out of the library, read it, and write 25-page essays on its contents.

Judge Detling offered no suggestions for subject matter but a court was suggested "The Compleat Angler" by Isaak Walton.

Jo Beth, born without arms as was Ravellette, wrote to the young salesman, who has since moved to Klamath Falls, Ore. Friendship developed.

Three weeks ago Ravellette came South to meet the young woman he knew only through letters. Last week he proposed; Friday night they were married in a white and yellow ceremony their guests described as "lovely... typical of a lovely girl."

"I won't carry her across the threshold, but don't think I could not do it," said Ravellette with a grin. "I'd find a way."

Chili Parlor Boss Faces Racial Rap

CINCINNATI (AP) — A suburban chili parlor operator faces trial July 30 in Hamilton County Court on a charge of violating Ohio's public accommodations law.

The charge against Tom Bell of Reading was filed by Melvi Posey, publicity director for the Cincinnati chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). Posey said Bell's employees refused to serve him and two other Negroes on June 26.

Posey told police he telephoned Bell to verify that was the policy at the place and Bell said he would not be served.

Indian Lake Riot Penalties Stiffened

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP) — Fines and sentences meted out to July 4 rioters at the Indian Lake resort area were tougher this year than the past two as officials sought to discourage a fourth incident next year.

Mayor Eugene Gooding heard Friday night the last of nearly 50 cases in which youths were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, obstructing an officer, or drinking intoxicants on public property.

In all but one case, fines ranging from $10 to $100 were collected, either after pleas of guilty or by bond forfeitures.

Birns Freed On Bond in Death Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alex (Shondor) Birns was free on $50,000 bond today after spending less than a day and a half in jail for questioning in the slaying of investment promoter Mervin L. Gold.

A decision was expected in Common Pleas Criminal Court today by Judge William K. Thomas on whether to reduce the amount of Birns' bond. The bond was set by Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel Gerber to assure Birns' presence at an inquest into Gold's death, scheduled for next Wednesday.

Birns, 58, was released late Friday after the second of his two court appearances. In the morning session he won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

In the afternoon session, Birns' lawyer sought to have the bond reduced to personal bond, involving no cash.

"There is no charge against Birns," he argued. "He is held only for investigation, and there is no such crime."

A file cabinet taken from Birns' home was opened in the office of Cleveland Police Chief Richard Wagner. In it were two revolvers and papers detectives said were of a "business type, the kind you'd usually throw away."

Gold was found beaten, strangled and shot in the trunk of his car in suburban solon Monday night.

Morgan's Raid in Ohio Took Place Just 100 Years Ago during July

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frightened Indiana and Ohio got their first and only touch of actual fighting in the Civil War just 100 years ago this month.

It was the famous "Morgan's Raid" in which the colorful Confederate general John Hunt Morgan, led a force of slightly more than 2,000 cavalymen through southern Indiana, swept around Cincinnati and then headed north-east along the Ohio side of the Ohio River until final surrender near West Point, Columbiana County.

Morgan crossed into Indiana from Brandenburg, Ky., on July 8, 1863. His dash through Union territory ended with the surrender on July 26.

Historians and biographers still don't agree as to just what the raid accomplished from a strictly military standpoint.

Newspaper and historical accounts agree, however, that there were a lot of frightened people in both Indiana and Ohio and even as far west as Illinois. "The Rebels are coming."

Cincinnati was placed under martial law as Morgan and his men headed from Harrison, Ohio. He veered north, however, through what now is Mt. Healthy and then into Clermont County on the east side of Cincinnati.

Basil W. Duke, Morgan's brother-in-law and second in command on the raid, wrote in an 1867 biography of Morgan that the Confederate general never intended to try to take Cincinnati. There were too many federal troops too close at hand.

All along the route there was pillaging, destruction of telegraph lines, burning of bridges, commandeering of horses to replace spent animals and frequent skirmishes with home guards, militia and federal troops.

Historians have figured the raid cost more than 200 northern lives with 350 other casualties while Morgan had about 300 men killed or wounded. It also has been figured the raid cost Ohio more than $1 million.

None of those figures seem very impressive in terms of present day war but they were in 1863.

Ironically, Morgan made the raid by disobeying orders.

Confederate Gen. Braxton Bragg, hard pressed in Tennessee, wanted to retreat to make a stand near Chattanooga. He feared interception by federal forces in Kentucky. He approved a diversionary raid by Morgan into Kentucky to tie down the federalists but he rejected Morgan's idea of moving into Indiana and Ohio.

Morgan, driving north from Burkesville, Tenn., took matters into his own hands, however, when he reached Brandenburg, Ky., and he started the raid he had been thinking about. He had his mind set on invading Union territory.

And from a military standpoint, it must have worked. Bragg made his withdrawal without interception.

After crossing into Indiana, Morgan first hit Corydon, the old state capital. Then he went on to Salem and Vernon. There was a brief skirmish with home guards at Salem. A larger force was encountered at Vernon but Morgan got around it by giving them time to remove civilians.

Morgan had started out with about 2,400 men but when he reached Harrison, Ohio, on July 13 he had less than 2,000. The march around Cincinnati was made at night. There was skirmish with pickets at Camp Dennison, near Cincinnati, and the raiders pushed right on to Williamsburg in Clermont County.

By that time, they had covered 90 miles in 35 hours.

There was panic in southern Ohio.

Gov. David Tod declared martial law for Cincinnati on July 12 and ordered the militia to active duty in 32 counties.

As Morgan went around Cincinnati he was being pursued by Federal forces under Gen. Edward H. Hobson.

At Williamsburg, Morgan divided his forces, one group angling south through Georgetown and the other heading east through Mt. Orab and Sardinia. They rejoined at Locust Grove on July 15.

Jackson and Picketon were pillaged as the raiders moved on. There was a skirmish at Berlin and then on July 19 came more or less of a major engagement with Federal troops as the Confederates sought to get back across the river at Portland and Buffington Island.

The exhausted raiders were running short of ammunition. The Federals captured about 700 of them but the remainder headed back northeast. With only a few hundred troops left, Morgan swept to Reedsville where another attempt to cross the river was unsuccessful.

The exhausted men drove on and met another volunteer infantry group at Eaglesport. On July 24 there was another clash with Federal troops at Old Washington. The raiders kept on but it all came to an end with the surrender near West Point.

Morgan sought to dictate his own surrender terms — parole of his men. He claimed there was agreement to that but that it was abrogated.

Morgan was among those imprisoned in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. He and four companions escaped four months later and got back to the South, but the raider general was killed in Tennessee less than a year later.

Towns throughout much of the area are holding centennial observances of the raid this month and there are many markers to show what happened where.

Ohioans may feel some concern today about the atom or hydrogen bomb but just 100 years ago they really were frightened — the Rebels were coming.

Picketing To Continue At Governor's Mansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Columbus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) has pledged that demonstrations in front of the Governor's Mansion will be continued "indefinitely" as part of the group's campaign for fair housing legislation in Ohio.

The Rev. Arthur A. Webbs said the pickets are asking Gov. James A. Rhodes to call a special summer session of the legislature to act on a fair housing law. The legislature is in recess until Dec. 2.

Dayton Man Fights To Curtail Bingo

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton man who claims all forms of bingo are illegal has pledged to take his case to the governor, if necessary, in order to get "charity" bingo games shut down here.

Immanuel Nadin told Montgomery County Sheriff Bernard Keiter in a letter Friday it is his responsibility to see to it that the so-called "charity" games are closed down. Fraternal and labor groups resumed holding bingo games last month after city officials decided they legally could be conducted for charity under certain conditions he outlined.

Youthful Thieves Told To Write 25-Page Essay

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Three young boys charged with stealing fishing tackle were fined $25 each by Juvenile Court Judge Glenn E. Detling. The youths also were ordered to check a book out of the library, read it, and write 25-page essays on its contents.

Judge Detling offered no suggestions for subject matter but a court wag suggested "The Compleat Angler" by Isaac Walton.

Chemical Weed Killer Is Fatal to Boy, 2

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — Two-year-old David Kren of Burton died because he drank a chemical weed killer, the Geauga County coroner has ruled.

Dr. Alton W. Behm said the high concentration of poison indicated the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Kren must have drunk it from some container. At first it was thought the youngster died after chewing on a weed his father had sprayed.
